

Grantees that receive funding from the Jones Family Foundation are required to submit a Grant Evaluation Form within 6 weeks of completion of the funded project or program or within 6 weeks of the end of each one-year period in which project /program funding was received. Failure to submit reports within these guidelines may jeopardize future funding opportunities.

Grantee reporting is an important part of The Jones Family Foundation's monitoring and evaluation process which enables us to become a more informed funder. We rely on your candid responses to help us assess the effectiveness of our grantmaking. We appreciate your honest appraisal of both the short-term results and longer-term impact of the project or program. Variance from the plans submitted in the original proposal or failure to achieve the desired outcomes are not perceived as indicators of project failure, and are often the result of unanticipated challenges during the project. Information about difficulties encountered provides us with valuable insight to improve future grantmaking impact in similar program areas. Please provide a candid assessment of the challenges and success/failure of your program or project. In addition to the completed Grant Evaluation Form, the Jones Family Foundation may request a follow-up site visit to gain greater understanding of the impact the program or project and the challenges that remain.

One final note to remember, post-grant evaluation information is also critical to your organization. You can use this information to evaluate your work to determine benchmarks, measurements for success and opportunities for improvement.
